BURGESS AT WASHINGTON TO ENFORCE NEW AUTO ORDINANCE

Law Prohibiting the Use of the Muffler Cutout to be Put Into Force At County Seat Town

Based on an ordinance which has been is effe t since August 17, 1914, Burgess Morgan of Washington has announced his intention to have the police force prohibit the use of a muffler cutout within the Washington borough limits. According to Burgess Morgan a persistent campaign against the nuisance is to be waged by the policemen and the offenders will be promptly arrested.

The action is the result of the many complaints which have been registered with the burgess and the police.

Garages and automobile companies have all been notified that arrests will be made for any violation of the rule and the owners are expected to take warning through the newspapers.

The ordinance which the burgess says will be enforced in the future reads: "That no muffler cutout shall be used on an automobile or motorcycle while being operated or driven over, along or across any street alley or highway of Washington."

TELL STORY OF GERMAN ATTACK

Rev. and Mrs. Joshua, Formerly of Charleroi, Travel On Shelled Steamer

BACK TO ENGLAND? NOT SOON!

After having undergone a terrifying experience during the shelling of their steamship the R. M. S. Orduna of the Cunard Line by a German submarine, Rev. and Mrs. Clifford S. Joshua and daughter Ruth, formerly of Charleroi, arrived in New Castle Sunday morning after spending the past two months in Wales and England, visiting friends and relatives, and observing conditions relative to the great c onflict in Europe. When asked if he would return to England again if he had a chance, Rev. Mr. Jashua said emphatically: "No, not while the war lasts."

The Joshua family sailed from Liverpool, on July 8, and it was at 6 o'clock the following day that the submarine made its attack.

An hour after sailing all passengers on the boat were ordered to the dining saloon, where they were given instructions and were provided with life belts, which they were told to keep with them on account of the possibility of attack. They were then told to proceed to the top deck and there were given tickets which directed them to stand near one of the

COUNCILMAN MAY BE APPOINTED TONIGHT

Meeting of Solons Called For Consideration of Important Matters---Ordinances May be Taken Up For Passage

The Charleroi borough council is scheduled to meet tonight, and there are some important matters to be considered if all members are present. If all members are not present probably adjournment will be taken without much being accomplished.

One of the important things will be the consideration of a man to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Councilman John K. Rickey. As a matter of fact council has not accepted his resignation as yet, but that is e ntirely because of the lack of a meeting. If enough are there for a quorum it will likely be taken up tonight.

There are two leading candidates for the councilmanic place, William H. Calvert, a former councilman and Henry L. Swickey. There is the slightest kind of a hint of a possible deadlock, so it might not be surprising if a dark horse should in the end be chosen.

Ordinances relating to the paving of streets are in shape for attention any time so in the event of a meeting they will probably be taken up.

HOLD BENTLEYVILLE MAN FOR GRAND JURY

Pigeon Creek Valley Man Accused—Charleroi Man of Same Name Suffers But Gets Explanations Made in Due Form.

George Crumrine of Bentleyville—not the Charleroi m an by the same name—was taken before Justice of the Peace John F. Carmichael at Washington Monday on a serious charge preferred by Samuel Nixon of Bentleyville. He waived hearing for court and was remanded to jail in defaut of the necessary bail, to await the August term of court.

Crumrine is charged with having attacked eight-year-old Dorothy Nixon, daughter of Samuel Nixon at Bentleyville. He had nothing to say Monday except that he had been under the influence of liquor and had no recollection of committing the crime alleged.

It was ascertained Monday that the man under arrest has not lived in Charleroi. George B. Crumrine lives here and some people persist in associating him with the one accused of the crime. The Charleroi man was in Washington Monday in order to have explanations made. He feels that it is only an unfortunate circumstance of names that has seemed in a way to associate him with a case of which he knows nothing.

CHAPLIN AT PALACE IN HIS BEST PRODUCTION

Charlie Chaplin, the world's greatest m oving picture comedian is to be shown in the Essanay comedy, "Work" at the Palace theatre tonight. This production is considered one of the best in which Chaplin ever appeared. Manager Barnhart has one of his best programs arranged for presentation tonight. The program will include "Silent W," with Lillian Walker and Earl Williams in the leading roles.

PICNIC ENJOYED BY PARTY OF YOUNG FOLK

A picnic and outing was enjoyed Sunday by a party of Charleroi young folk on the Moreau farm back of Speers. A picnic dinner was served. Thirty-five of the younger set from Monessen and Charleroi attended the affair. Miss Ida Carroll and Carl Elder were the chaperons.

COKE REGION ITALIANS EXPECT CALL TO ARMS

Patriots Ready to Respond to King's Request to Fight—Reservists Leave Chicago for New York to Sail for Native Land.

The call to arms of the Italian reservists in the coke regions of Fayette county is being expected daily. Hundreds of others throughout the country have been leaving for the last month on every Italian and French steamer that sails for Europe. Few reservists have gone back voluntarily, although when called they answer willingly.

It is estimated that in the United States there are a half million Italians naturalized and unnaturalized citizens, who are available to be called out to serve their flag. In Fayette county alone the Italians number between 15,000 and 20,000.

There are about 50 Italian men in and about Connellsville who are awaiting the call from the king which is certain to come soon, and they all express their willingness to fight. Space will be reserved for them on the first steamer that sails after the call is issued.

None from that section have yet left the county, but in the next few months many calls will be issued. The Italians must choose between answering the call or being banished from their native land. If one who ignores the summons should be arrested in Italy he would have to serve a sentence of from three to fifteen years.

Recently attached to train No. 16 were three coaches filled with reservists from Chicago who were on their way to New York, where they will sail immediately. When the news reached the Italians large crowds gathered at stations and saluted and cheered the future soldiers. About 360 were on board.

The men in the cars were gay. Each had a tiny Italian flag which he proudly exhibited. They said that 400 had left Chicago at the same time as they did over another route.

Wednesday is the last day for voters to register for eligibility to vote at the primaries on September 21. Wednesday is also the last day to register under a party name or to change enrollment in order to be eligible to vote any party ballot on September 21.

Registry assessors are at the polls in each voting precinct all day today and Wednesday will spend the day t here.

In Monongahela where personal registration is required the dates are August 26 and 31 and September 11.

There has been noticed a general tendency of former Washington party voters to re-align themselves with the Republican party, and it is understood t here have been numerous changes. Important offices are to be filled this fall and indications are for a heavy vote.

CONTROLLER SAYS FUNDS ARE SHORT

Consequently He Will Not Approve Warrants Save For Road Work

BORROWED MONEY NOW SPENT

Controller Thomas J. Underwood gave notice Monday to the county commissioners that he would not approve any more warrants, except for payment of road work. It was ascertained that this step was taken because the county treasury is again very short on funds.

It will be recalled that some months ago, due to extraordinary expenses that the county had to meet the past year, the county funds became exhausted. At that time the controller and commissioners had some differences, due to the refusal of the controller to approve a plan whereby the commissioners would use temporarily $120,000 to be secured from the sale of road improvement bonds.

The commissioners took the position at that time that it would be strictly within their rights to transfer this for general purposes and when the taxes come in, pay it back into the road improvement fund. The controller stood firm in the matter, and would not O. K. the proposition. Consequently the commissioners, upon a demand note, borrowed $50,000 at five per cent interest.

Controller Underwood said Monday that this $50,000 had been spent and in addition to that the commissioners had been permitted to over-

Wise Estimate Drawn by Census Men Dating First Of July

MONESSEN GROWING RAPIDLY

Present Population, Statement Says, Is About 20,000—Donora, Greensburg and Other Towns Show Reasonable Increase.

With the completion of population estimates for July, 1915, it is shown that Charleroi has a population of 11,558 and that Monessen a town of remarkable growth in the past decade, has a population of 20,191. By this compilation Monessen assumes the position of the largest town in either Westmoreland or Fayette county.

The figures made public this year show the 1 910 and 1915 population of cities which had 8,000 or more inhabitants in 1910. Both the April 15 and July 1 figures for 1915 are given, the former date being the exact five year period since the 1910 census, while the July 1 estimates are included, this being the date fixed for the annual estimate made by the Federal Census Bureau. This year the Census Bureau made no estimate but the figures while unofficially compiled are estimated by the method followed by the bureau and will be found identical with the July 1 1915 estimates that made a year hence by the Census Bureau. The Census Bureau calculates on growth during the decade preceding the taking of the official decennial census. During the 1900 and 1910 period Monessen virtually had its start and the greater part of its growth to 11,000 population, hence any estimates now made may be overdrawn, while those of Charleroi and like towns which had their most wonderful growth preceding the 1900 census will be nearly correct.

Monessen's population in 1910 was 11,775, and according to the estimate, this year had gained 10,416 inhabitants. During this same period, according to the estimate Charleroi grew from 9,615 to 11,558. Greensburg advanced from 13,012 to 15,058. Following are figures for various towns:

	1910	April	July
Charleroi	9,615	11,481	11,558
Donora	8,174	9,500	9,550
Greensburg	13,012	15,003	15,085
Jeannette	8,077	9,198	9,244
Monessen	11,775	19,890	20,191
Uniontown	13,334	19,788	19,598

JULY PHANTASY.

At such a time as this one wishes to think of cool things. One may permit imagination to revert to the Decembers, the Januaries, the Februaries of the past, with their endearing and ear-tingling experiences. One does not shudder at the piercing blasts from the north, one does not dread slippery and treacherous sidewalks in mid-July. On such a night as preceded the dawn of this July day one thinks in terms of ice cream, of lemonade of other cooling foods and drinks, says the Altoona Tribune. One strives to imagine the weird song of the wind around the eves of the house about 4 o'clock of a typical winter morning.

The recollection of the nervy person who imposed upon your good nature in divers ways some months ago, the chap whose sublime cheek and amazing coolness made you imagine for a moment that your spine was a column of ice, does not provoke a spark of anger now. On the contrary, the present remembrance of his coolness is unto you as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land. You wish he'd come in and reduce the temperature just now. You are glad that you had such an experience. It is a happy fortune which permits you to dwell upon his monumental impudence for once more your spinal column shivers.

According to one theory nothing really exists in the human mind. All this solid earth, as we are in the habit of calling it, is merely the baseless fabric of a vision, conceived and erected by our minds. In other words, nothing one sees is real.

We suggest to the perspiring reader that this is a very comfortable doctrine to adopt at this particular moment. The temperature is not high; there is no such thing as temperature. Your uncomfortable sensations are not genuine; they are merely the creation of your mind and are of no more substance than the dream you had last night in which you quaffed ice cold drinks while a houri from the Eysian fields gently fanned your fevered brow. The weather, as well as the universe is merely the creation of your mind. Why not have an equable temperature all the year by to follow the course of other seasons? Why permit your fancies? Why accept the common idea that July is a torid and an uncomfortable period or the other depression which men have agreed to call time? If our young friend's theory that the world exists merely as we choose to behold it, is tenable and agreeable, why not make our world agreeable, why not make our world and its weather to suit ourselves.

MIRTH

"Frame your mind to mirth and merriment which bar a thousand harms and lengthens life." Lycurgus decreed that statues of the God of mirth should be set up in the halls where the citizens of Sparta ate, says State Health Commissioner Samuel G. Dixon in his weekly talk on health and hygiene.

Men of all ages have appreciated the value of a cheerful disposition. The cultivation of cheerfulness even in the face of misfortune and disaster unquestionably helps to prevent illness. On the other hand those who always take a somber view of life are so distressed by misfortunes when they come, that there is often danger of physical impairment.

The nervous system in the human body is so delicately adjusted that a comparatively slight distrurance may seriously disturb certain of the bodily functions. While it might be at times difficult for the most skilful diagnostician to trace the exact connection between mental depression and a physical illness, the fact that they are often intimately related is well known.

Habits of mind like habits of body can be cultivated through persistent effort. Cheerfulness is one which will not only prove a distinct benefit to its possessor but serve to stimulate and encourage those with whom he comes in contact.

Melancholia and similar serious disturbances may be brought about by permitting the mind to brood over real or fancied troubles and if indulged in the line of demarcation between the two becomes more and more indistinct.

Therefore, though you do not set up the statue of the God of mirth in your house bear ever in mind that "the light heart lives long."

In summer time there is always bound to be a slackening of trade. Business invariably gets dull, excepting at the summer resorts, where it gets lively. The psychology of it all is that July and August are months just between the sales season and are vacation months. But the reason industries do not operate to their fullest is because there is a limit to human endurance.

Charleroi had a carnival two weeks ago; it will have a Chautauqua next week. A carnival is for entertainment alone: the Chautauqua for both entertainment and education. Both operate in their own sphere, but no one is going to get very wrothy if it be remarked that the Chautauqua's sphere is somewhat larger than the carnival's sphere.

Charleroi has three large banking buildings one of which is now being renovated and improved. The interior of another bank was entirely rebuilt, recently and to the third a new department was added that required alterations. These are significant improvements and additions, indicating the rapid growth and increasing importance of the community.

Some politicians down in Philadelphia have been kindly undertaking to select a mayor for the people of that city. Perhaps the voters may be allowed to arrange that matter, since they are the people most vitally concerned.—Altoona Tribune.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

From a section of the big city where "they hit 'em over the ear just to see 'em fall," according to a ball player with minor league experience, a resident of that excitement-producing neighborhood wrote to the manager of a small league team for a job in the outfield. Contrary to custom, he did not get at length into a description of his talents, but merely stated that he was qualified to hold a position.

This undue modesty, coupled with the fact that the manager really was in need of an outfielder, promoted the boss of the team to wire back:

"Can use you if you can hit."

Later in the day he decided that he would give the candidate a trial at any rate and wired:

"Join team here. We will refund your transportation."

The two telegrams apparently reached the young ball player at about the same time, for the manager received the following reply to both messages:

"Can hit pill, but can't raise dough."

The outfielder was wired transportation.

A doctor can bury his mistakes. A newspaper man publishes his. And whether a doctor kills or cures he claims the right to his profit. But for his mistakes a newspaper man, if he prevents a libel suit for his paper, at least makes no money from his blunder. That is, under ordinary circumstances, the newspaper man makes no money for his mistakes.

On an occasion, according to a story told by a member of the Kentucky Press Association, a country editor turned a blunder into profit.

Mr. Jones had died. The paper in publishing the fact had intended to say a bit grandiloquently that Mr. Jones had "gone to that land from whose bourne no soul e'er returns." But it appeared in print that Mr. Jones had "gone to that land from whose bum no soul e'er returns."

Jones' wisdom indignantly demanded a correction. The editor recalled that there was due from the estate of the deceased six years' unpaid subscription. He said he would make no correction until the delinquency was paid.

The widow hastily paid him $9 back subscription and an extra $1.50 for a year in advance.

CORONER JAS. HEFFRAN ASKS FOR RE-NOMINATION

Friends Believe Present Official Should Be Re-elected Because of His Past Efficiency—Is Self-Made Man.

James T. Heffran of Speers, the present coroner of the county, will again seek the office for another term. He is putting himself forth as a Republican candidate for the nomination at the primaries in September.

On account of the many friends he has made as a public official he needs no special introduction to the voters. He submits his candidacy upon the record he has made as coroner. On account of illness, that has kept him from his office for several weeks he will be unable this year to make an active canvass of the county.

James T. Heffran was born in England and is a self-made man. He is married and has two children. As coroner he has much to do in investigating cases growing out of mine disasters and he is thoroughly familiar with mining conditions, having been at one time a miner. He was 12 years of age when he entered the mines, and has ever since been closely allied with the toilers and their interests, having represented his fellowworkmen many times in district and national conventions. By energy and application he acquired a good education and steadily has grown in regard of those who know him.

He has been active in recommending reforms to employers and employees alike, in order to reduce the risk of labor in general, especially in mining. In conducting investigations into cases that come under his jurisdiction he has been thorough. No one can criticise the administration of "Jimmie" Heffran. He is entitled to serious consideration by every voter.

life boats, according to their number.

This included all the passengers, probably 220 or 230 in number. The youngest children, as well as adults, were provided with life belts. While they stood near the life boats as directed, the chief officer gave instructions which were that if they heard a whistle blow, they were to proceed at once to the lifeboat to which each was assigned and get in. All were urged to remain calm in case of attack, as that was the only chance of safety.

Many walked about afterward with their life belts on, and all kept them within reach. They had also been instructed to sleep with their clothing on and the Joshua family complied with this order.

When the first shot from the German submarine was heard the cry came: "All on deck with life belts." When they reached the lifeboat to which they had been assigned there was only one man before them. This was A. H. Adams of Winnipeg who had been on the Lusitania, and who had been picked up after having been for three hours in the water.

Rev. Mr. Joshua states that there was no panic among passengers or crew, although there was a terrible feeling of suspense a number of women fainting.

PRINCE ALBERT

is such good tobacco you feel like you could just eat the smoke!

Yes, sir, P. A. puts a razor edge on your smoke-appetite-division that's nobby enough to be photographed! No other pipe and cigarette tobacco can be like Prince Albert, because no other tobacco can be made like Prince Albert. The patented process fixes that—and removes the tongue-bite and throat parch! Let that digest!

The toppy red bag, 5c

And that line of conversation is 24 kt., whether you play P. A. in your old jimmy pipe or roll it into a makin's cigarette. For you can put your little old blue-pencil O. K. right here that Prince Albert is a regular double-header for a single admission—as joy'us to your tongue and taste one way as the other!

Will the "rollers" kindly step forward for a spell and get some of this listen into their systems? Because Prince Albert certain and sure jams more joy into a makin's paper than ever before was figured up on two hands!

In the plain language of the hills, you can't any more resist such makin's tobacco than a bullfrog can pass up a piece of red flannel! Because P. A. hands to you everything any cigarette roller ever dreamed-out—rare flavor, and aroma, and mildness, and body; absolutely the best bet—the best smoke you or any other man ever did roll and put the fire to! Men, we tell you to wise up.

P. A. is crimp cut and stays put—which means rolling P. A. is as easy as falling off a log. And it's good to remember P. A. is put up in the toppy red bag especially for you "rollers." Sells for the price of a jitney ride, 5c.

Now, will the "pipers" kindly open both ears?

Here's tobacco that has made it possible for three men to smoke pipes where one smoked before!

Any way you hook it up, Prince Albert is tobacco insurance! Yes, sir, it guarantees your future as well as your present smokings! And just makes your tongue so jimmy pipe joy'us that your smoke appetite grows whopping big. You men who "dassn't," we say you go to P. A., natural-like! Because there isn't a bite in a barrel of this national joy smoke.

Unlimber your old jimmy pipe! Dig it out of the dark corner, jam it brimful of P. A. And make fire with a match! Me-o-my!

You get acquainted with Prince Albert in the toppy red bag, 5c; or tidy red tin, 10c, but for the double-back-action-joy, you buy a crystal-glass pound humidor. And then you're set! You see, it has the sponge-moistener top and keeps P. A. at the highest top-notch point of perfection. Prince Albert is also sold in pound and half-pound tin humidors.

NITRATE DEPOSITS OF CHILE

Many Things to Which the Users of the Supply Should Give Close Attention.

The world's supply of nitrate, for use in the manufacture of fertilizers, explosives and other chemical products, is now derived almost entirely from the deposits of sodium nitrate in northern Chile. These deposits are vast, as compared with any probable future demand and even the best efforts of a close monopoly supervised by the Chilean government have not been able to do more than keep output and prices under some small degree of control. In ordinary times the Chilean deposits can swamp any possible competitive supply, and in the past this has operated to prevent the development of small or less well located deposits elsewhere

The Chilean deposits have, however, one marked defect which is brought into prominence by the present European war; and which would have come out in still more disastrous form in case of a war between the United States and any power having an active fleet in the Pacific ocean. The defect is that the distribution of the output is entirely by sea, and that the steamers carrying the nitrate must make a long run along open coasts. We must, therefore, consider that nitrate, though the supply is more than ample, is likely to be entirely cut off under war conditions.

In default of a supply of Chilean nitrate, a country would have to fall back upon either (a) local or other supplies of natural potash or soda nitrates, (b) nitrogen extracted from the air, or (c) nitrates manufactured from coal tar products. All of these are technically feasible, and none are absolutely prohibitive as to cost under war conditions, though in normal times none of them can at present compete with the Chilean supply.—Engineering Magazine.

ALL RUN BY ELECTRICITY

Labor-Saving Devices a Feature of House Exhibited at Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Electrical labor-saving devices form one of the most interesting features of the manufacturers' exhibits at the Panama-Pacific exhibition. A novelty shown in this department is an all-electric house.

Many homes have been built and adapted to use electricity in as many ways as possible after construction, but the house exhibited has had the various features built in. Each room is equipped with labor-saving devices and electrically operated comforts. All the kitchen machinery, from potato peelers to the electric refrigerator, is motor driven.

The dining room is arranged so as to show how light lunches can be prepared on electric chafing dishes and stoves. In the rear of the house there is an electric workshop and a garage equipped with a battery recharging device for the electric automobile.

Who Invented Khaki?

The answer to the question, "Who invented khaki?" is not easy, although we all know that the adoption of khaki by our army dates back to the South African war. It will surprise most people, says the Liverpool Mercury, to be told that nearly fifty years ago a Liverpool celebrity advocated something akin to khaki as the most serviceable color for the uniform of our troops. W. G. Herdman, the artist, and author of "Ancient Liverpool," writing in 1869, condemned the red uniforms of the British and the white uniforms of the Austrian armies as the worst possible colors, having regard to their visibility at long distances. He added, "If armies went into action clothed in a gray-green all over, head or cap and all, they could not be distinguished till close to."

Great Men In Disguise.

If a potentate or a famous man were in your skin, how would you face the probable assassin? We are told that the kaiser has his special doubles made up in his image and likeness, and dressed in understudies of his uniforms, so that the enemy may try his powder on the dog. They have adopted the method in England, as when there were "two Richmonds" in the field. But somehow we all like best the splendid vanity of Nelson, who insisted on going into the fight in full uniform and with his orders on his breast. It was—for that reason—his last fight. Most of us in practice perhaps, would give away a few old suits for the assassin to pot at.—London Chronicle.

BIG CITY FOR UNITED STAND

Philadelphia Republicans Make Harmony the Watchword.

INDICATES VICTORY IN 1916

Pennsylvania Gives Promise of Taking the Lead Next Year In Rolling Up an Enormous Vote For G. O. P. Men of All Parties Feel That Permanent Prosperity Cannot Be Realized Unless Republicans Win.

Philadelphia, July 20.—With all the Republican elements in this city united and preparing for the mayoralty battle, it looks as if the majority that will be rolled up for the party in Philadelphia this fall will be the token for the big victory next year. Philadelphia—the first Republican city of the land—will indicate to all the people that the Republican party in 1916 is going to regain the presidency and control of congress.

Enemies of the Republican party are greatly aggrieved at the "effrontery" of the G. O. P. in Philadelphia to make harmony its watchword. Hardly a day passes but that wild tales of a prospective break in the ranks are published in the Democratic and near-Democratic press, but as a rule every such story contains in itself enough contradictions to make a denial unnecessary.

The Republicans of Philadelphia will name a ticket that will mow everything before it like a Kansas scythe. Those who continually fight the Republican party realize this fact and are pursuing their present tactics for the same reason that a man who is drowning grabs at a straw. They have a faint hope that harmony may possibly move out and discord take its place, in which event, and only in which event, the so-called Independents might defeat the will of the majority.

The late Washington party is now busily carrying out a fusion plan. It is fusion with the Republicans. With their own party practically out of existence in Pennsylvania, as it has gone out of existence in Michigan, Minnesota, South Dakota and other states carried in 1912, those who supported Roosevelt and Johnson are not only willing but anxious to return to the fold.

As a matter of fact, the ruining of American industries by the Democrats has been a bitter and painful experience to men of all parties, including many former Democrats. It has taught the people that the only hope for the restoration of prosperity in the state and in the nation is the restoration of the Republican party to power, and the restoration, through the Republican party, of protection for American industries.

Men who strayed away from the Republican party in 1912 are home again, because they are intelligent enough to realize that the split of three years ago enabled the Democrats to win control of the nation.

The Republican party is looked upon as the national party pledged to the principles of protection for American labor and American industries from being driven out of business by the poorly paid labor of Europe and Japan. Republicans of Pennsylvania realize that it will require a victory next year to rebuild the industries of the Keystone State that were damaged when the Democrats took hold of things.

No better admission by the Democratic press that the policy of that party on the question of the tariff is unjust to our industries could be made than the following news article in the Philadelphia Record of recent date. It not only confirms everything the Republicans have been claiming regarding the tariff, but further states that the present activity of American hosiery mills is due entirely to the European war. Here is what the Democratic Philadelphia Record says:

"Hosiery and underwear mills all over Philadelphia are now running at full blast, as the result of an unprecedented rush of war orders, it was learned yesterday at a special meeting of the officers, directors and advisory board of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers, held in the Manufacturers' Club. From nearly every nation in the conflict have come commissions for enormous purchases, making it necessary to run all mills on extended time and engage thousands of extra work people.

"The meeting was held yesterday to consider problems of the trade which have come up as a result of the war. Chief among the subjects considered was that of finding sufficient dye to color the immense amount of hosiery now being made. The dye supply which formerly came from Germany has been entirely cut off, and there is no relief from the shortage in sight.

"A resolution was adopted demanding the enactment of a tariff on dyes, so as to protect and foster dyemaking in this country. This is a magnificent opportunity, the manufacturers said, to build up the industry, but it cannot be done without some assurance being given those who might invest their capital in it that Germany would not swamp this country with her dyes at the conclusion of the war. Capital, it declared, is eager to enter this field, but will not do so when the possibility of future German competition seems to force ruin when the European conflict is ceased. For some years the declared, it will cost more to manufacture here than abroad; therefore there should be a tariff high enough to protect this industry."

Lime-Loss in Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (January 17, 1914) was the following:

"It has been many times stated that in tuberculosis or in the pre-tuberculosis stage an increased amount of calcium (lime) is lost, both in the urine and feces. In fact, a demineralization has been thought to be a forerunner of the development of tuberculosis * * *

"Forced feeding of tuberculosis patients and the enormous amount of eggs and milk once given such patients are not now considered advisable by a large number of physicians who are specializing in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis."

If tuberculosis is due to a loss of lime from the system, the success of Eckman's Alterative in the treatment of this disease may be due, in part, to the fact that it contains a lime salt so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

Always we have urged users of Eckman's Alterative to attend strictly to matters of food.

In addition to rest and proper diet, some effective remedial agent seems to be needed, and in numerous cases of apparent recovery from tuberculosis and kindred throat and bronchial affections Eckman's Alterative has supplied this need.

It does not contain opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so it is safe to try. Your druggist has it or will order it, or you can get it from us direct.

draw into the $120,000, secured by bond issue for road purposes until it is about gone. Out of this $120,000 for road purposes it was stated only one warrant for $810, paid to Hastings & Piper of Charleroi has been drawn. The balance in the treasury Monday for all purposes was but $20,000.

It was also learned that the county treasurer has refused to call in taxes, collected on the 1915 levy, by banks over the county, until after August 1. County taxes are payable with five per cent discount up to and including August 1. State and county taxes are now being paid and it is thought that the situation will be relieved shortly, when the bulk of the state and county taxes are in. Out of the taxes received this year the $120,000 taken from the road fund, will have to be paid back, and also the $70,000 note, given some time since. However, until there is more money in sight the controller says he will honor no warrants except as stated above.

Keeping Men Out of Mischief.

To keep its men out of mischief a big coal company inaugurated the garden habit among its miners. Result! Pay day sees far fewer fights, much less money spent for liquor and a larger sum carried home to the wife and children. I learn from the manager that besides these immediate effects many of the miners are now able to raise a considerable part of all the vegetables their families eat.

Some of the large iron and steel companies divert their men with music. C. M. Schwab is patron saint of a great band at Bethlehem.

There are four bands or drum corps at the Cornwall Ore banks, and the Frick company goes the limit in mixing music with coke, having 14 bands at its various works.

Give men something pleasant to do, and they will spend less money and time for things that are unpleasant.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Soothes Tooth; Fires Bed.

John Wolf, a rural mail carrier of Ebensburg, Pa., has demonstrated that an electric light bulb will cure a toothache and then some. Wolf was walking the floor with a toothache of the jumping kind, when the bright idea struck him. Wrapping a towel around an electric light bulb attached to a long cord, he got into bed, pressing the bulb against the aching molar as a warming pad. The device worked magically. The suffering stopped and wolf fell asleep.

Shortly after midnight, the mail carrier dreamed there was a fire and that he was fighting his way through smoke and flames. He awoke to find the bed burning. He sprang to safety and gave the alarm, but before firemen arrived the house was almost gutted.

Dog's Hard Fate.

A Gordon setter frequented the pier of Hastings, N. Y., where tug boats land for fresh water and the animal had become a favorite with many of the tugboat men. For three weeks the boats were not able to land because of the ice and the dog, apparently not understanding, had barked his dejection as his friends steamed slowly past him. The other day a tug which the dog seemed to recognize steamed past the pier and the animal, first running about apparently in a frenzy of excitement, finally ran to the shore, plunged into the water and started swimming toward the vessel. The ice was thick in its path and at last the dog was forced to put back. The animal reach shoal water, but there it stood, its eyes fixed up stream where the tug was disappearing. Perhaps the icy water benumbed the dog so it could not move; at any rate it stood motionless while the incoming tide sent the water creeping up its sides and presently the waves met over its head. Men who had expected each instant to see the dog come ashore realized too late to save the animal that it could not or would not move and were forced to see it drown.

He Wiggled Cabot's Toes.

How he "wiggled" the toes of the late Louis Cabot of Milton many times each night in order to put Mr. Cabot to sleep, was related by Ralph E. Chandler, an undertaker, now of Lewiston, Me., on the witness stand in the trial of the action of Mrs. L. Vernon Briggs to break her father's will, which disposed of $2,000,000. At the time the "wiggling" occurred Chandler was in Mr. Cabot's employ.

"Did 'wiggling' his toes seem to quiet him?" asked Sherman L. Whipple, chief counsel for Mrs. Briggs.

"Yes, sir, it did," replied Chandler.

Every night Mr. Cabot would give vent to a series of wild yells, according to Chandler. "He would often wake up at all hours of the night, at irregular intervals, and scream," he testified.—Boston Dispatch to the New Herald.

HAS AWFUL EXPERIENCE ON FLYWHEEL OF ENGIN

Hurled around and around through space until his clothes were torn from his body and finally thrown to a place of safety on the floor of the engine room James Staley of near Centerville had a terrifying adventure when his clothes caught on a projecting spindle of the flywheel at the pumping station of the Philadelphia company just far from Centerville.

While his escape from death was almost miraculous he is suffering but slight injuries. His head is gashed across the forehead, his back is strained and he is badly bruised and shaken but there is no reason to believe that the injuries will prove serious.

Staley, who is an oiler at the pump station, went to work in the morning dressed for warm weather and it was the light, thin clothes that he wore that saved him. Had he been clad in heavy garments he would undoubtedly have been killed. The force of the rapidly revolving wheel caused the light clothes to tear, releasing the man from his perilous position and bringing his hair-raising ride to a stop.

BOYS WORK SCHEME TO PROCURE WATERMELONS

Washington Lads Try Old-Time Plan For Getting More Than They Agree to Pay For.

With the advent of the watermelon season, a new confidence game has made its appearance in Washington. The stunt is worked by boys, usually small, sometimes large and is nearly always a success. The scheme is simple. One or two boys go into a fruit store, inquire the prices of melons and finally buy one of them.

While they are thus engaged and the attention of the merchant taken, accomplices in the dark plot remove one of the melons which are on display at the front of the store and make their getaway. The operation is swift and silent and by the time the storekeeper has time to ponder the situation, a melon that was once his, has forever passed from his ownership.

One of the boys who tried this little game at the store of Margaret McLaughlin in Allison avenue, Washington was arrested and pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Z. G. Wonsettler there. In default of fine, the lad, who was about 17 years of age was given 10 days in the county jail. However, the boys who aided in the plot took up a collection and paid the unfortunate one's way out of the bastile.

OFFICER NEEDED AT COAL TOWN; ONE IS APPOINTED

Upon petition of Constable W. B. McBride, the court has appointed James F. Chester to be deputy constable of South Strabane township. The petitioner sets forth that he has not been well and unable to go out at nights. He states there is located within his bailiwick the village of Manifold, the coal town of the Paterson & Robbins Coal Co. where a large number of miners are employed, many of whom are foreigners. He further sets out that Manifold is about two miles from the borough of Washington and about four miles from Laboratory, where he, the petitioner, resides. He avers that conditions about said coal works are such that an officer should be stationed there for the safety of the citizens and security of property.

CERTIFICATES AWARDED TO 325 APPLICANTS

County Superintendent L. R. Crumrine and the first Assistant E. F. Westlake have completed examining all papers of the applicants who were examined for certificates during the past months. In all there were 378 examined, 323 for professional. Of the above total 270 provisional certificates were granted and 55 professional. This shows that about 19 percent of the applicants failed to make the required grades which entitles them to certificates. The last examination will be held in Washington August 14, in the Third Ward School building.

MARRIAGE IN RUSSIA

OCCASION OF MUCH CEREMONY AMONG THE PEASANTS.

Ancient Customs Still Observed in the Land of the Czar—Wedding Feast Always a Time of Great Mirth.

In ancient times a betrothed Russian maiden always used to send her future husband a whip, wrought by herself, in token of her submission to him and on her wedding day he gave her a gentle stroke upon the shoulders to show that he was the matrimonial master. Among the nobles the wedding is usually an evening function, the bridal pair fasting during the day which precedes it. The ceremonies are numerous; many assistants and masters of ceremonies have to be invited—ladies of honor and bridesmen. The party seeking the bride, among the peasants, usually chooses a byway so as not to meet anyone, for a meeting would be an evil omen.

Having arrived at the house of the bride's father they knock at the window and ask for admission. They refuse to sit down, saying, "We have not come to sit down nor to feast, but to ask in marriage. We have a brave youth, you have a fair maiden. Might not the two be brought together?" The bride's parents, thanking the visitors for the compliment, the latter now take off their caps and eat. This done the matchmakers ask for a final answer.

Pleading for time to think the matter over, the parents finally give their consent, after which a candle is lighted and placed before the holy picture. The contracting parties cross themselves, pray, strike hands on the bargain and the matter is settled. The wedding clothes are blessed by the priest.

Solemn is the blessing bestowed by the respective parents of the bride and bridegroom before leaving their homes, sacred pictures, which precede them into the church, are waved three times over their heads, two wax tapers are given to the pair and the bearer of the taper which goes out first will be the first to die.

In the marriage ceremony a ring of gold is given by the man to the woman and by the woman to the man and afterwards exchanged by the best man. The bridal pair are crowned with filigree of silver or garlands, and the last act is the dissolution of the crowns, which in olden times took place upon the eighth day, when the bride was conducted to the bridegroom's house. During this last ceremony wine mingled with water is given in allusion to the marriage at Cana.

When the priest, followed by the bridal pair, walk around the "maloy" upon which the cross and gospels are placed, an address on their duties is delivered: they kiss each other, the benediction is pronounced and the newly wedded pair is now led to the bridegroom's house. His parents meet the young couple at the entrance to the house and bless them with bread and salt, while the relatives pour barley down over them, which expresses the hope that harmony and happiness may be theirs.

They may now enter the house and sit down on a bench, while the bride hides her face with a handkerchief, which is taken away by her mother-in-law or an aunt, after which she receives the married woman's headdress. The wedding feast follows, which, among the Russian peasants, is an occasion of great mirth.

The marriage age fixed by the church is eighteen for boys and sixteen for girls. Men must not marry after eighty or women after sixty. Two years' penance—exclusion from the holy communion—is the penalty for a second marriage, five years' penance for a third, while a fourth marriage is impossible.

Lost Life in Work of Rescue.

A lifeboat man perished at Worthing, England, during the gallant attempt of the crew of the lifeboat Richard Coleman to reach the schooner Kingsmill in distress. The craft was launched in record time. Some soldiers lent a hand, several going waist-deep into the water to get the lifeboat clear of the beach. Tremendous seas, such as Coxswain Marshall said he had never experienced before, caused the lifeboat to capsize, but it was of self-righting pattern and the crew were soon back in their places. A little later the lifeboat capsized again and the drenched crew were once more thrown into the water. This time one of the men, Jack Burgess, failed to get back. His body was recovered by men on the shore, who practiced artificial respiration in vain. Before the lifeboat could reach her the schooner had been driven ashore.

Steals Bernhardt Painting.

An oil painting by Sarah Bernhardt, reported to be valued at several thousands of dollars, was stolen from the lobby of the Punch and Judy theater at New York.

The canvas by the French actress had been presented to Charles Hopkins, owner of the theater, when he was a student at Yale. The picture is that of a dog viewing a city scene. The artist oddly carried the dog's tail from the canvas to the frame.

Many of the Punch and Judy patrons recall the fluffy dog, looking very much like a muff, which adorned the wall near the box office.

Healthy exercise, too. But if your feet get hot, sweaty and tired; if they burn and ache until the discomforts of dancing begin to exceed the pleasures, then you need Williams' Foot-Bath Tablets.
